Christine

Head of International

Education and recruitment specialist, and qualified teacher, with more than 10 years' experience working with international teachers and support staff across the UK.

My experience:

- I trained to teach in Canada and relocated to the UK for what I thought would be two years of teaching and traveling; this turned out to be nearly two decades!
- My passion for high quality, inclusive education has carried me through each step in my career. I work with internationally educated teachers and support staff because I know the expertise they bring to the UK is invaluable.
- I pride myself on providing the highest level of service to all candidates, gaining a deep understanding of skills and motivations, advising on relocation, and sharing best practice for succeeding in UK schools
- I'm still taking advantage of the incredible travel opportunities from the UK—and encourage you to do the same!

I work with:

- Internationally trained teachers
- Graduates interested in support roles in schools
- SEND specialists
- UK MATs and school groups
- International universities
- Passionate educators who want to make a real difference
